Forever

Well Datsun,
It's finally got to the Big Sr. year, because you're a nice guy. I hope you can give me some advice on how to make my hair grow like yours, or maybe I can give you advice on how to stop. It's been really groofy seeing you and Brenda fussing over me and Greg. I hope only the best to come of you and Brenda. Remember always that you are my friend. Good luck.

Casually . . .

With a large school, such as Rider, it is often easy to become lost in the shuffle. Some people feel that they are just a number to the staff and a face to the students. This attitude should not exist. Everyone needs to feel as if he belongs and that he is a part of the group. He needs to feel comfortable with himself and with others, and when he does, a more relaxed, casual atmosphere will surface.

Candidly . . .

School is a place to learn academics, but it is also a place to learn how to deal with people.

The RAIDER, this year, is composed of pictures of people dealing with other people. Individuals doing what they do every day is what life is all about — real life, not false, phony put-ons. People do not constantly stand, posed in groups as most photographs suggest.

Hopefully, a more personal feeling will be conveyed by this book. One might even find a touch of himself.

Life is very unpredictable and should be pictured frankly, casually, honestly and CANDIDLY.

Moving . . .

Students are constantly on the move. Their lives are full of many different things such as homework, sports and organizations. These activities make schooldays memorable.

Activities

Belonging . . .

People, individually, are very important. Being alone is a necessity to growing and living, but people also need to be together. Clubs and groups can help to break the monotony of school. Being with peers, helps fill the voids of life.

Cheerleaders are a very great group of girls jump, shout and actually ENERGIZE the onlookers at games or peprallies or even in the halls. People really enjoy participating in cheering for the school, but sometimes they are a little shy. The cheerleaders help many overcome their shyness and therefore are a major part of the pepsquad. It takes time and practice to make old cheers come alive and new ones make sense. These girls are a very select group with a very select job.

Raider Crew members really express their spirit in activities throughout the year. The group was formed in 1974 to take the place of male cheerleaders. The purpose of this select group of seniors is to promote spirit at pep rallies and games.

They do creative acts with their bodies, including spelling out "Rider Raiders" when everyone shouts out the letters to acting out popular skits.

During Coyote Week the Raider Crew gives it their all. They stay at the gym all night with the cheerleaders to help protect the school.

"I thoroughly enjoyed working with them," said Sgt. Roy Johnson. "They enhance the school just as much as anyone," added Sgt. Johnson.

Probably one reason the Raider Crew is so popular is that they stick with the Raiders through rain or shine.

GOAL POST DECORATORS

is a somewhat misleading title for this group because the girls support more than the football team, as the name implies. The group has been very active this year. Each girl has decorated locker rooms, baked cakes, made signs or supplied team members with various kinds of surprises for each game. This group of spirit boosters recognizes and shows their appreciation for the effort of athletics. The Goal Post girls also encourage student spirit generally.

"I'm a Raider," Kim Partain.

provide entertainment with their high-kicking and fast-stepping routines. They perform at all football games, both in and out of town.

Their routines are mainly jazz, and some involve pom poms or chairs. The officers performed a separate routine to "Celebration".

The annual banquet took place Saturday, November 14. The theme was "Somewhere Over the Rainbow." The highlight of the banquet was the announcement of the year's awards.

Michelle Sparks was named queen, and her court consisted of Jackie Cover, Kathryn Keith, Kim Muckey, Sheron Morris, Eileen Stephens, Kim Duke and Shay Janke. The Girl-of-the Year was Gina Bristo, and the Line Leader-of-the-year was Sherri Cooley.

As a result of their hard work, the drill team has received much recognition. They took an active role in the Pioneer Bowl by marching in the parade. They also entertained at nursing homes. Midwestern State University basketball games and all home Rider basketball games.

A CAPPELLA was a story of ups and downs. Fortunately, the ups outweighed the downs to catapult this group of 86 juniors and seniors into becoming "the greatest choir ever."

Laboring methodically, the choir began to polish those first pieces and struggled to learn the all-important Christmas music.

The work and determination of the yuletide season culminated into the final concert at Sikes Senter Mall. A crowd of at least 500 packed into J.C. Penney's court to hear the choir belt a nearly flawless concert. Then, A cap electrified the home of Director Don Cowan as members threw a party to epitomize what was known as "our season." It was also on this night that Mr. Cowan announced the choir had turned over the sign proclaiming it to be "The Greatest Choir Ever."

Fund raising is an important part of any organization and A cappella once again sold Spirit Ribbons to encourage football support. The headaches, though, of fund raising are many; on money-due days, a choir member may end up with seven ribbons exactly alike, owning a two weeks supply of gum, or standing before the class with a demerit in hand and apologizing for not doing his part as a door-to-door salesman.

At the beginning of the new year, members once again began from scratch to learn music. The new goals were to receive a sweepstakes at UIL contest, produce a memorable album and have a successful Spring Concert.

The choir also had fun times. The annual Sweetheart Banquet was in early February and the group traveled to Six Flags Over Texas in April.

Accomplishing their previous goals, the choir began work on their final concert, graduation. It was there the choir members performed together for the last time, bringing tears to the eyes of countless graduates. "Beautiful Savior," the choir's song for 21 years, was performed for the last time by this choir as the closing number. A feeling of sadness and fond memories was lingering in the hearts of A cappella members as the final chords of the choir faded.

GIRLS AND FRESHMAN CHOIRS both contended to make their organization the best in Raider history.

Girls choir's 66 senior, junior and sophomore members strived for unity to produce blended, rounded tones.

The choir had a busy Christmas season, singing five concerts in 12 short days, with a finale at Sikes Senter. Next, after the annual Sweetheart Banquet in February, the girls looked forward to a trip to Six Flags in May.

A special fund raiser the choir profited by was the selling of T-shirts with a Raider logo to boost school spirit. Fund raisers helped finance the May trip and banquet.

Spring concert was the last duty of the girls and the choir came through with flying colors.

Freshman choir also worked hard, knowing that in January they would have a chance to audition for Girls Choir and the next year for A cappella. The choir also held a spring concert in conjunction with Girls Choir.

THE RIDER HIGH SCHOOL MARCHING BAND is a traditional organization in which many talented musicians participate. Students in the band must be totally dedicated with self-discipline. They must also have enough self-discipline to practice their instruments every day.

During football season the band performed at every game except the Lubbock game. Each week they must learn new music and different marching steps. It takes coordination to play their music right and march at the same time. This calls for after school sectionals to help them learn their music better.

Being in band is not all hard work. The group has parties and does many fun activities together. The hard work and fun they share is what makes The Pride of the Raiders what it is.

ORCHESTRA is a very involved group of young people that strive for perfection in the musical field. The group is gifted, hard workers that put forth a great deal of effort. The group consists of 50 guys and girls, training for the concerts and contests demanded from them throughout the year. It takes a special person to devote the time and effort needed to make orchestra what it is today.

THE RAIDER STAFF works frantically for months to create an annual that will pinpoint the entire year. Beginning in the summer, the staff chooses type and layout styles, cover and division layouts and endsheets. Staff members attend several workshops to learn the latest trends of annual production. With the help of Mrs. Helen Johnson, adviser, the staff learned the importance of deadlines and of working together. Dorie Glickman, editor, was an able leader as she could take care of the many facets of yearbook production, including layouts and photography. After a tremendous effort to complete the final deadline, the staff anxiously awaited the arrival of their creation.

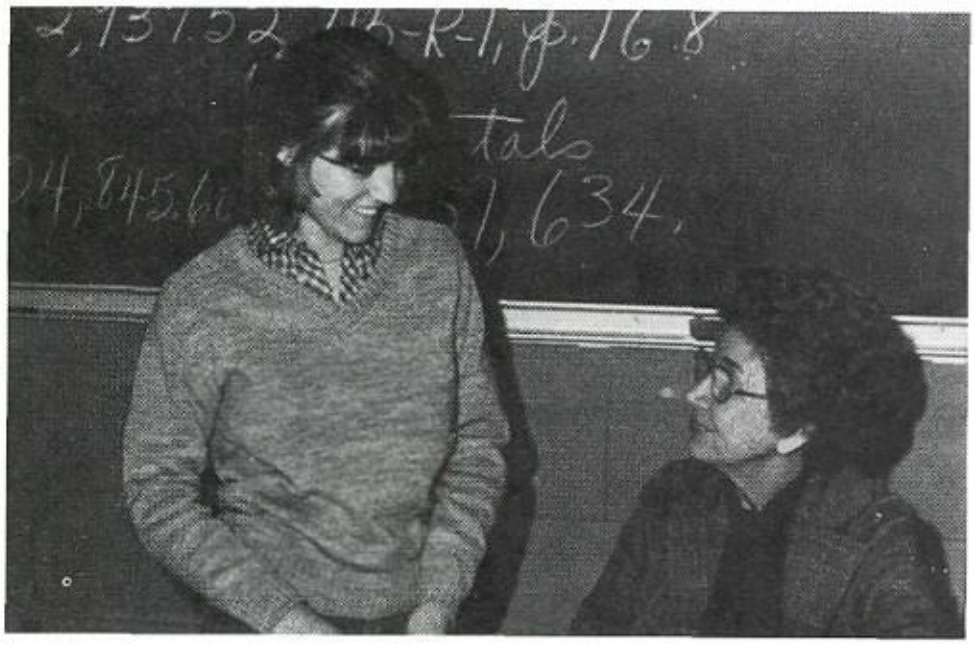
Kim Shaver, bookkeeper, talks over financial matters with Mrs. Mary Beth English, business advisor.



THE ROUNDUP staff works very hard to meet deadlines and to produce the school newspaper. The staff's goal is to record school news, features and editorials, and to keep students informed about events happening in and around the halls of Rider. Staff members write all stories, design their own layouts, sell all advertising, set type and take care of all photography necessary to complete each issue.

NATIONAL FORENSIC LEAGUE, better known as NFL, was formed to interest students in public speaking.

This organization of speech students learn to be organized and articulate speakers. Members of NFL must be aware of current events and the changing society in which they live.

After many hours of preparation members compete in tournaments throughout Texas. Among events are extemporaneous speaking, oratory speaking, impromptu speaking, poetry and prose, debate and pantomine. Topics for public speaking events often include political, social and economic issues.

THE INTERNATIONAL THESPIAN SOCIETY

is an honorary, educational organization for high school students. Its aims are to establish and advance standards of excellence in all phases of theater arts and to create an active and intelligent interest in the theater. Students enrolled in Drama classes are given an opportunity to earn membership in the society by participating in full-length and one-act plays. That participation consists of acting jobs and backstage work. Students receive points as credits for working on productions outside of school. Members also have an opportunity to compete in speech tournaments in the areas of acting, poetry, and prose reading.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA is an active organization that contributes much to the school and the community. Each student buys and cares for an animal. The animals are sheltered at the FFA farm. The students keep a record of the animals' daily activities and other information necessary.

Future Farmers participated in several fund raisers, such as the sale of food items. Some of these were hams, turkeys, fruit and sausages.

Another very unique fund raiser occurred when the group sold themselves for an eight-hour period to anyone that needed help with any work. Dances and banquets are frequent. Much preparation goes into planning these events. The Ag Mechanics class is new this year and seems to be popular. The ag program is excellent experience for someone that intends to pursue agriculture as a career field.

LEARNING JOB SKILLS, can come in handy in today's world, so the Home Ecomonics Cooperative Education group assists young people. The students work hard to prepare for "life on the outside." They take up several projects each year, and one of the most popular is the spirit dolls they made during Rider-Coyote Week. The class concentrates on making career choices, learning good work ethics, and making the best impression at job interviews. Students look into jobs in many areas, such as child development, food service and clothing.

INDUSTRIAL COOPERATIVE TRAINING, is a cooperative relationship between employers of the community and the public, to train vocational students.

The student organization that supports the ICT program is VICA, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

This kind of special training prepares members for leadership in the world of work. Classroom instruction includes individual study of their field, human relations, taxes and on-the-job safety.

assistants help Rider run smoothly. Library assistants shelve books and make sure students can find the material they need. Counselor assistants take messages and passes to students and make sure that students sign in and out properly in the counselors' office. Annex aides file AGR cards and schedule cards and carry passes to students. Office aides collect the absentee slips, answer the phone, check students in and out of school and deliver passes and messages to both students and teachers. The efficiency of the Rider system is due to student assistants.

GYM AND TENNIS ASSISTANTS

ASSISTANTS are chosen to help take the work load off the coaches and gym teachers. Both groups find that they enjoy the responsibility of assisting their P.E. classes. Gym assistants include both girls and boys. Reasons for becoming a gym assistant include special privileges, leading the class, and, for girls, not having to wear the infamous blue and white striped "monkey suit." Tennis Coach Jerry Franklin suffered through the entire first six-weeks without tennis assistants. Once chosen, however, these girls went quickly to work. A tennis assistant must be a good sport, as well as having a penchant for chasing tennis balls. Gym and tennis assistants work hard to provide a service for both students and instructors.

JROTC is a class designed to teach students responsibility, leadership and citizenship. It also offers a variety of extra curricular activities that are popular with members.

One of these activities is the Flag Corps. This group presents the colors at home football games. Another JROTC group is the Drill Team.

The drill team is actually two separate groups. One is the boys' drill team, the other is the girls' drill team. These teams practice after school and compete in tournaments throughout the year.

Rifle Team is another aspect of JROTC. This group practices first period during school and also competes in competition.

Each Wednesday is "uniform day" in the JROTC world. The students are asked to wear official uniforms of military design, as the JROTC program is subsidized by the government.

Field trips and camp-outs are also arranged for JROTC members. Students learn much about themselves and their abilities on such trips.

JROTC is indeed a busy group as they participate in many extra-curricular activities.

Junior Historians is an organization of students who appreciate local, state and national history.

Members participated in the Wichita County Centennial, which included field trips to historical sites, and the Lake Wichita Pavillion project. Some members also attended a convention in Austin in March. One of the major achievements of the group was the writing of articles for Texas Historian, a monthly publication. Junior Historians are sponsored by Mrs. Linda Smith.

The Key Club is a select group of students who devote much of their time to helping others. Key Club members participated in many activities. One of the charitable contributions of the Key Club was donating money to buy food baskets for needy families at Christmas.

Key Club members also took an avid interest in the upkeep and beautification of the school by cleaning up the courtyard and planting flowers for the spring. Key Club is sponsored by Mr. Vaughn Coffman.

Relaxing...

Hard work is expected during school, and doing a good job brings pride to one's heart. Much is demanded from today's student. Juggling school, family and friends take patience, so to relieve some of the pressure, students treat themselves to fun, challenging pastimes.

ONE THING COMMON to every student's life is a fast pace. Students are always rushing to do something, whether it is making it to that sign-making party, or finding time for some last-minute studying for an important English test.

Even the economy at Rider is fast-paced. Groups find that peddling food or spirit-oriented goods is a great way to raise money. As soon as the merchandise is handed out to group members, the race is on to sell. Simply walking into class becomes a hazardous experience for the unsuspecting student, or at least for his wallet. It's a wonder that anyone has money left for lunch.

Lunch is definitely another fast-paced facet of Student Life. The fact is that 30 minutes is just not very much time to talk to friends, flirt, study, and engage in various types of practical jokes when one must also make it to Burger King and back, not to mention eating lunch itself. If one is a freshman or sophomore and is forced to eat in the cafeteria day after day, he finds that he must rush to battle a vicious lunch line. As the year progresses, however, each student works out his own personal system so that, by making every minute count, he can squeeze at least 45 minutes of action into the standard 30-minute lunch period.

While school takes up a large portion of a student's life, Student Life pertains to much more than that. Most students participate in a variety of extra-curricular activities including sports, clubs, and jobs. The fast pace of high school also extends to these activities.

An athlete realizes early in the season that his sport is going to take up a great deal of time. Learning to juggle practice, games and homework, and still retain a small amount of leisure time is quite a feat, but one that is attained by many. To them, the personal satisfaction of belonging to a team is worth a few months of extra rushing.

Clubs abound around Rider. Meetings are held both in the morning before school and in the evenings. Early morning meetings mean that club members must arrive at school much earlier than on any normal day. For the majority, this poses a problem. Being accustomed to punching the "snooze" button two to three times per morning, and running at least 15 minutes late, getting to school before the tardy bell is near to impossible. Meetings in the evenings interfere with the ever-important dinner hour, and with homework, but often boast higher attendance than early morning meetings.

Jobs: Students can't live with them, and can't live without them. A large percentage of upperclassmen have part-time jobs. Oftentimes it is wondered, "Do I have the job, or does my job have me?" for a part-time job can become a full-time worry. Homework, as usual, is the victim. In most cases, however, the job wins out for simple reasons, such as cars, dates, clothes, music, and the feeling of independance that some students rely on.

A fast pace is predominant in many areas of Student Life. Most Raiders feel that this intensifies the fun and enjoyment of being in high school.

Mr. and Miss Raider Nominees

One of the oldest traditions at Rider is Roundup Week Sept. 28 — Oct. 2, 1981. Each senior votes for one boy and girl. The votes are tallied, and the nominees are kept secret until the day of the Roundup Assembly.

The seniors presented the "Dukes of Raider County" for the skit. The nominees were introduced as part of the skit.

The students returned to their classes and chose the candidate of their choice. At the dance that night, the 1981-1982 Mr. and Miss Raider were announced.

Lori Irwin and Regan Reser were chosen to fulfill this title, because they best represent Rider in spirit and friendliness, the true qualities of a Raider.

STUDENT COUNCIL represents an integral part of student government at Rider. The council consists of the presidents of each class and a specified number of students representing each grade level. Some of the year's activities included dances, spirit chain during Coyote week, and a faculty Christmas party. The council worked hard to make student life more enjoyable and to develop a sense of leadership and responsibility in students.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

is a nation-wide organization for high school honor students. To qualify for nomination, seniors must have maintained a 3.5 grade-point average, and juniors must have a 3.7 grade-point average. From this group, the faculty votes on the personal character, service and leadership of each student. This year Rider has 33 incoming seniors and 29 juniors to join the 30 two-year members in the S.H. Rider Chapter of National Honor Society.

SPIRIT BOOSTERS are really needed to make sports and other school activities more fun. Boosters are people that go beyond the call of duty with school participation. This group is very much appreciated and admired for their interest and endurance. A very special award, given to the person that shows the most school spirit by going to the majority of events and helping to promote the spirit in others, is the Twelfth Man Award. This year Gail Seigert was the recipient of this honor for all of her hard work especially during football season. This award is very important and those who receive it should be honored. The person is chosen by the cheerleaders. In addition to the Twelfth Man Award is a group of certain individuals that receive the coveted Spirit Stick. These people show an extra amount of enthusiasm at pep rallies. Hopefully these people can help everyone to become more excited.

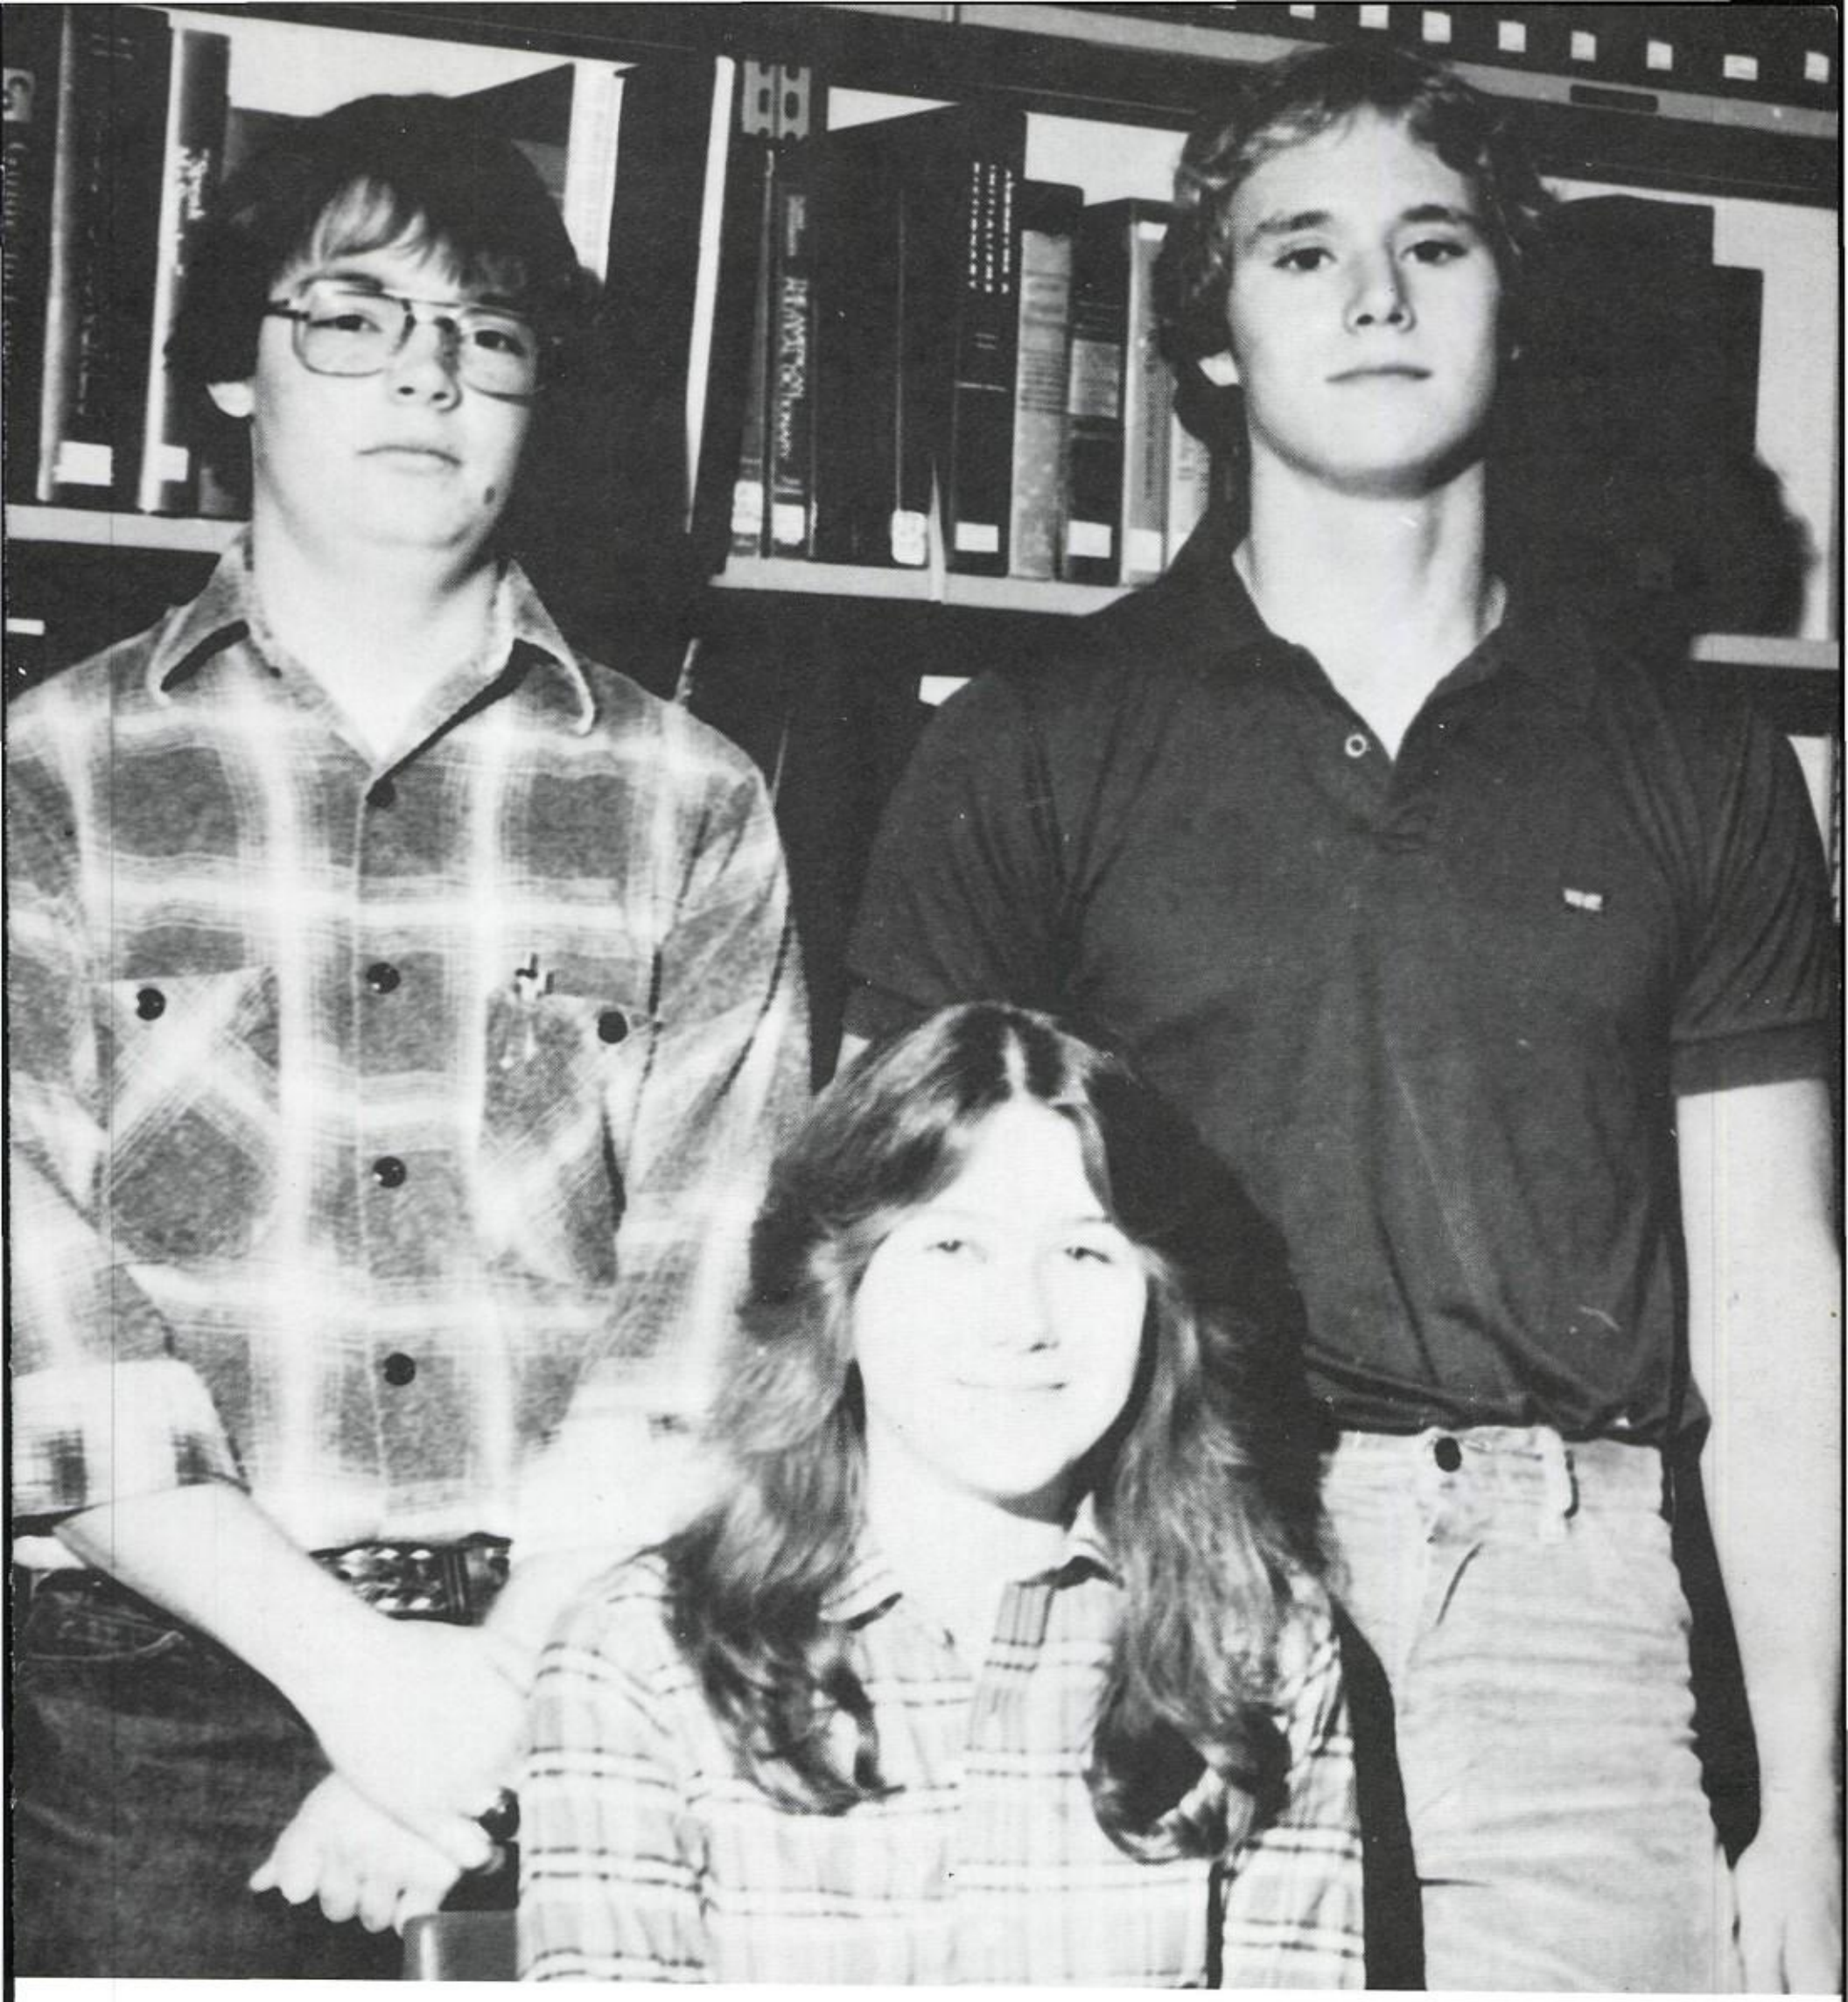
Each year the nominee for the DAR Award competes with other local nominees for a chance to represent the Major Francis Grice Chapter of the Patriotic Society of DAR at the state convention.

Runner-ups for the DAR Award were Lisa Bodin and Steve Allred.



NATIONAL MERIT SCHOLARSHIP finalists were Robert Scates, Leslie Kressenburg and Paul Davis.

These students received high scores on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test that they took when they were juniors.

Striving...

True Raiders have always striven for perfection in sports. These attempts are clearly displayed by each and every athletic team that represents this school. Sports is not the most important aspect of school life, and certainly not more important than academics, but achievement in athletics helps build a competitive spirit and a healthy attitude.

RIVALRY has been around since day one between football teams and schools.

It has always been important that a good school have a super football team. That is exactly what Rider has. The guys are real Trojans. They work themselves ragged trying to make their school, their team and their friends proud of the way they play. The team got off to an excellent start in September. Even when they lost, the team never gave up hope. The players realize that though they as a team are important, their individual attitudes are what makes the difference. Giving so much of one's time to one activity displays an obvious interest and dedication; that is what the Raider varsity football team is all about.

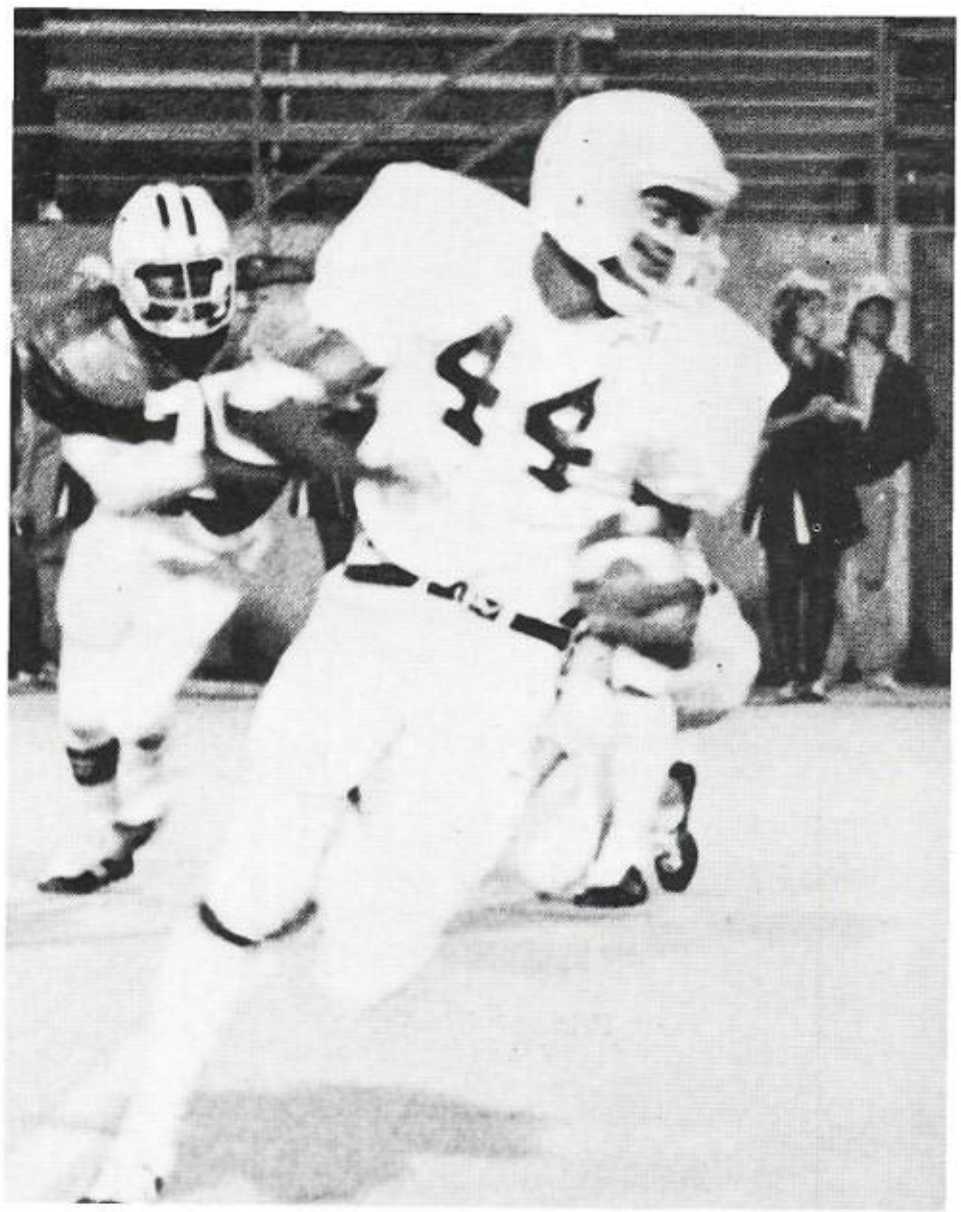
"The Leaning Bandit of Rider"



THE BANDITS AND RUSTLERS are each City Champs, keeping the winning tradition of Rider.

The Bandits strive for perfection as "visions of varsity dance in their heads". One of the highlights of a Bandit's year is to be selected to dress-out at the Old High game. They know that all of their hard work will pay off in the future when they become full-fledged Raiders.

The Rustlers are also a hard working team. Their first obstacle to overcome was the tensions of McNeil-Barwise rivalry. Once done, however, the Rustlers became a strong, unified team.

The Bandits and Rustlers work hard to make Rider proud of them.

THE VARSITY AND JUNIOR VARSITY SWIM TEAMS

TEAMS consist of guys and girls that work together every day to perfect their skills in the water. Much practice is necessary to make a team good. Outside practice is expected from each team member and is usually received. A very unusual situation exists with the swim team at practice. They work out at Midwestern State University with the swim team from Wichita Falls High School.

players work hard each day during basketball season to perfect their game. These players are the varsity players of the future and their games and practice are as important to the school as any varsity team. Each day this group of ladies practices their shooting, passing and running. Much stamina is needed to play basketball because much running is involved. The JV Team practices with the Varsity Team and this gives the group a chance to mingle with people that are doing the job they will have next year.

THE LADY RAIDERS

Practice is a big part of each girl's day. Working out after school and during sixth period is something they expect of themselves and each other. This team is very determined to do its best when it comes to basketball. They have earned the support, respect and loyalty of each student. The attendance at the games did not reflect the support of which the Ladies are entitled. The empty seats at the games do not represent the real feelings the people have for the job the girls have done.

JUNIOR VARSITY AND FRESHMAN BASKETBALL players are a group of dedicated men that work and play hard for the good of the team. Their goals are high because they are working to improve their skills as players, therefore making the school look good. Much of the time they spend working and practicing is their own. Though the teams have a great deal of practice time during school hours, they must also give time from their leisure to practice. They know the better they are this year will determine how good they will be next year.

Our years at Rider

Filled with laughter and heartache, our years at Rider were the happiest, yet the saddest we have known. The anticipation of the beginning and the end of our high school days overwhelmed us. We will cherish the memories and the friendships made here, and remain true Raiders forever.

Remember as Freshmen:

Orientation, singing the "Fight Song" and the "Alma Mater" for the first time . . . that first day . . . getting lost . . . meeting new people . . . class elections . . . sign-making parties . . . our first pep rally as Raiders . . . a victorious climax to Coyote Week, 12-0 . . . Terrible Tuesday . . . getting out at noon . . . learning the true meaning of Raider Spirit.

Remember as Sophomores:

Returning and finding new "old" friends . . . being able to laugh at those silly freshmen . . . getting that all important driver's license . . . feeling independent . . . pep rallies in the old gym . . . Rangler tryouts . . . dragging Kemp . . . sharing the school with McNiel, for the second time . . . beating the Coyotes again, 14-0.

Remember as Juniors:

Finally, upperclassmen . . . term themes . . . class ring . . . PSAT . . . our first class breakfast . . . the Junior-Senior Prom . . . trying out for a cappella, Raider Crew, cheerleaders, Goal Post . . . saying good-bye to graduating friends . . . those last few days without the seniors.

Remember as Seniors:

Our year . . . keeping old traditions and beginning new ones . . . school pictures during the summer for the yearbook . . . Roundup Week, Mr. and Miss Raider from our class . . . Crazy Day . . . our last happening . . . ACT and SAT . . . applying to colleges . . . ordering graduation announcements . . . the senior play . . . graduation parties . . . senior activities . . . scared of the future and pretending not to be . . . June 4, Graduation . . . saying good-bye . . .

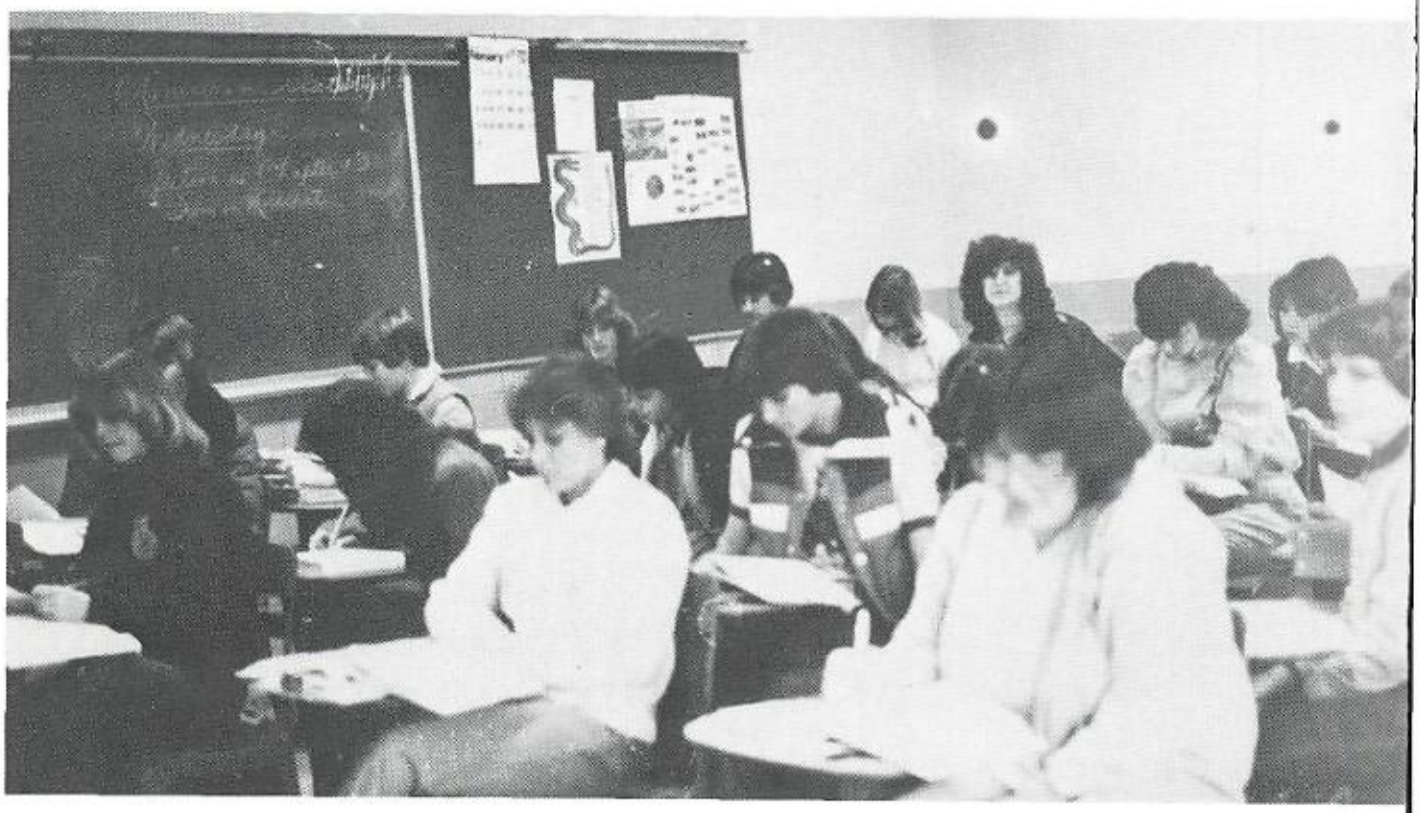
Motivate Motivate Motivate

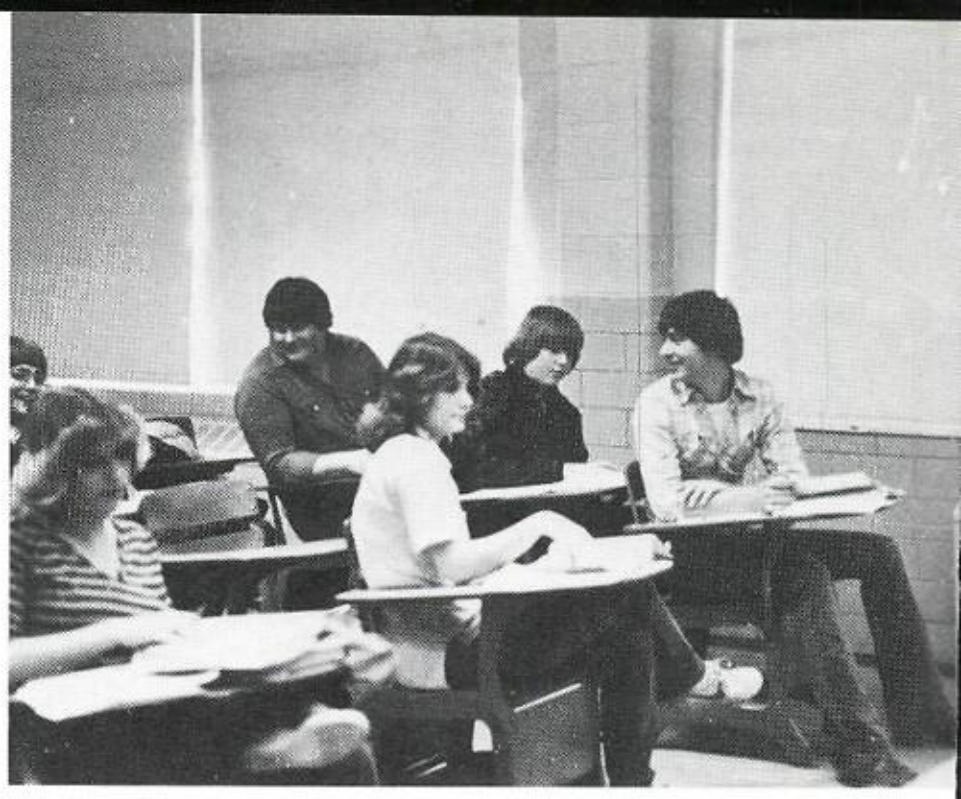


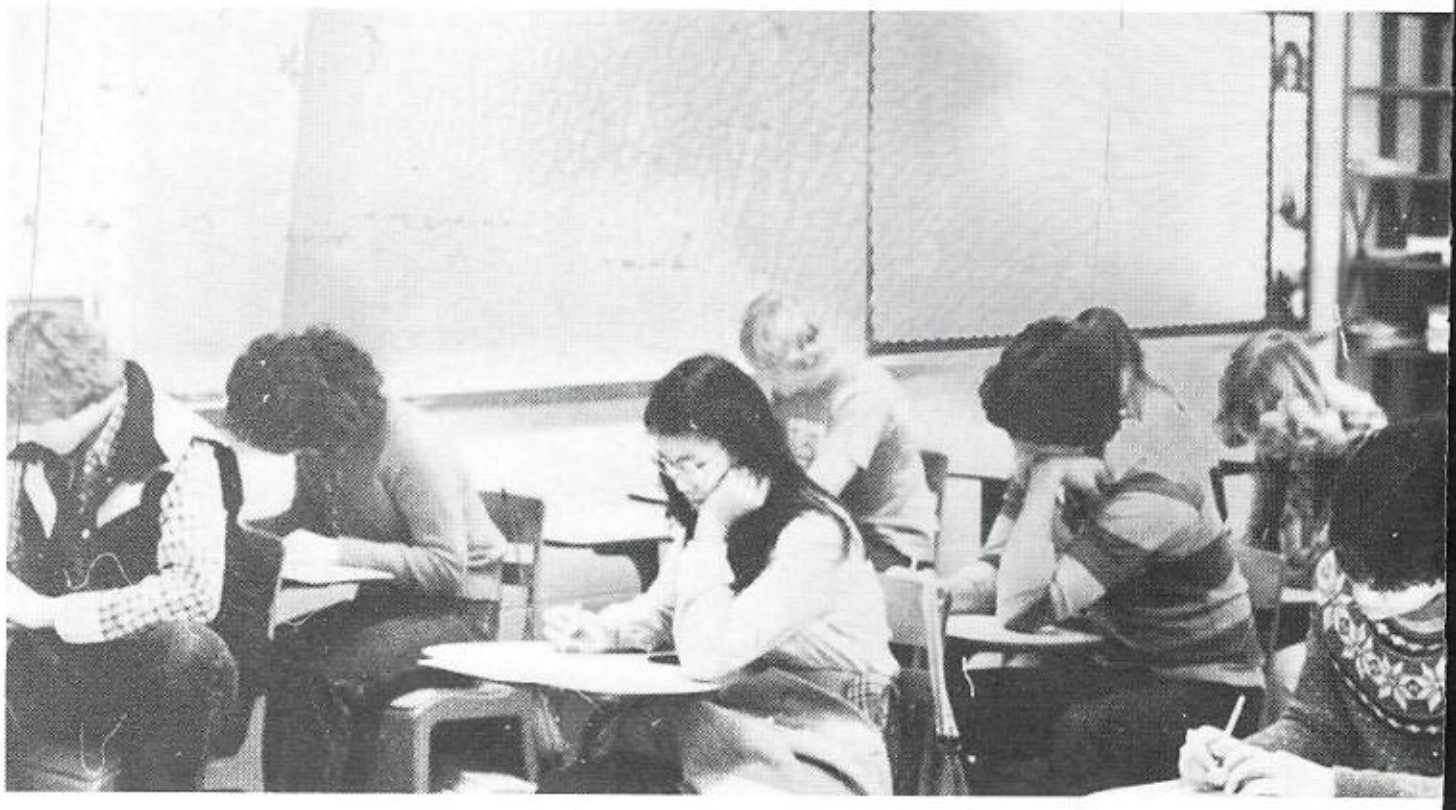
SOMETIMES in the life of the student, the fun and excitement of living, and the ups and downs can make one forget that school is a place of knowledge. It is important that a student make friends and enjoy the time in his life when responsibilities are minimal, but the academics of school life are sometimes neglected. Hopefully, in this yearbook, many items that, in the past, have been forgotten, will be stressed. In the next few pages, everyone will become more aware of the academics of high school.

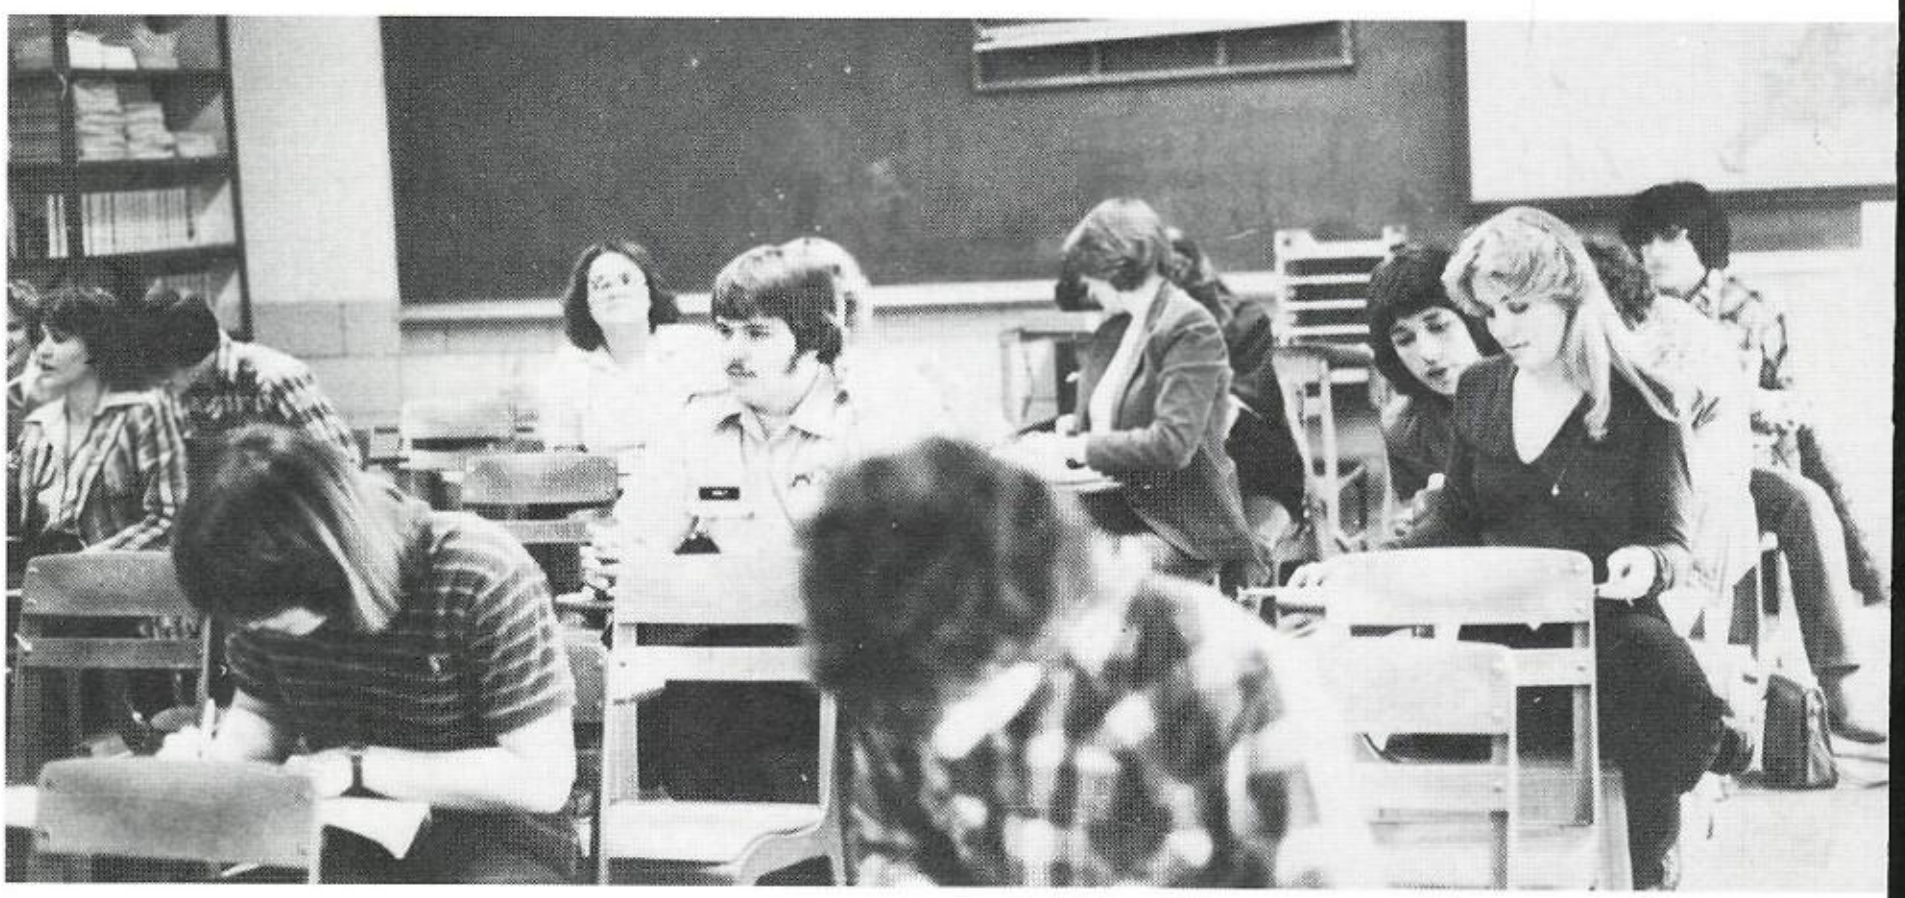
Humanities is a class offered that teaches the cultural side of life. It is often beneficial to have some background in early civilizations.

American history is a field of study in which one could make a career. Knowing the activities of one's forefathers can prepare youth for similar encounters in the future.

Motivate Motivate Motivate







Study Study Study Study Study

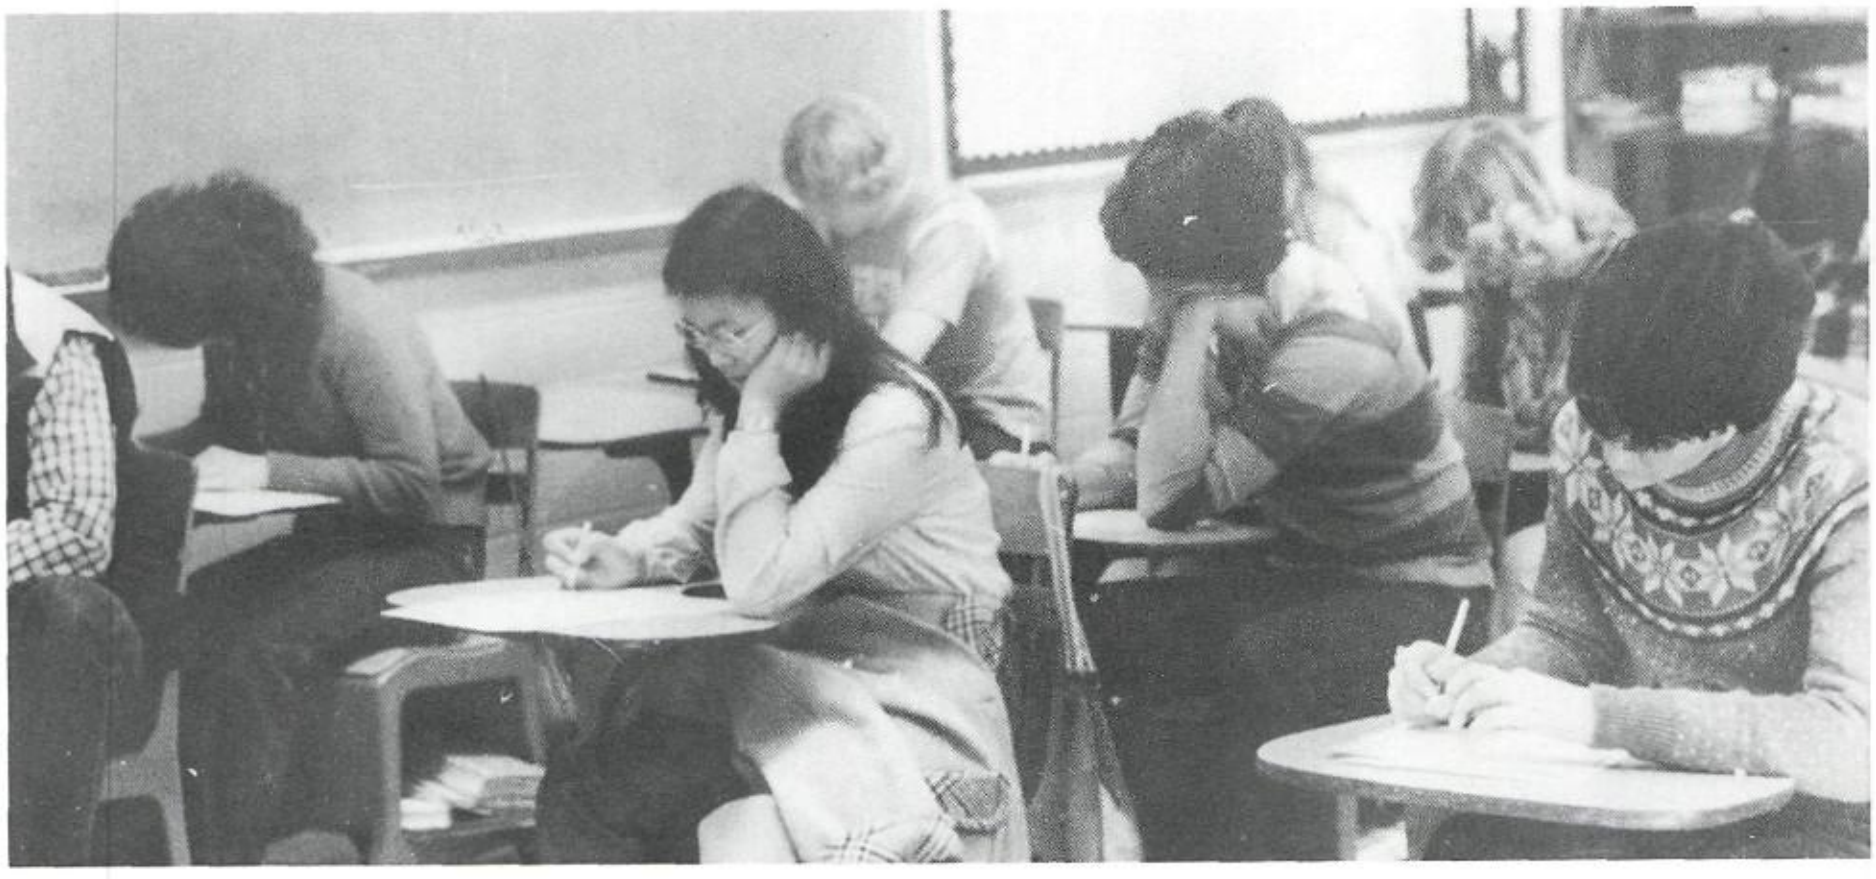
That which applies to American History also applies to World History. Knowledge in the area of World History can carry one a long way in the decision making of the future.

Government is a course directed at the senior getting close to voting age. This class can be beneficial, because it can prepare the student voter for the action he can expect from the city, state and nation and the knowledge of how his voice counts.

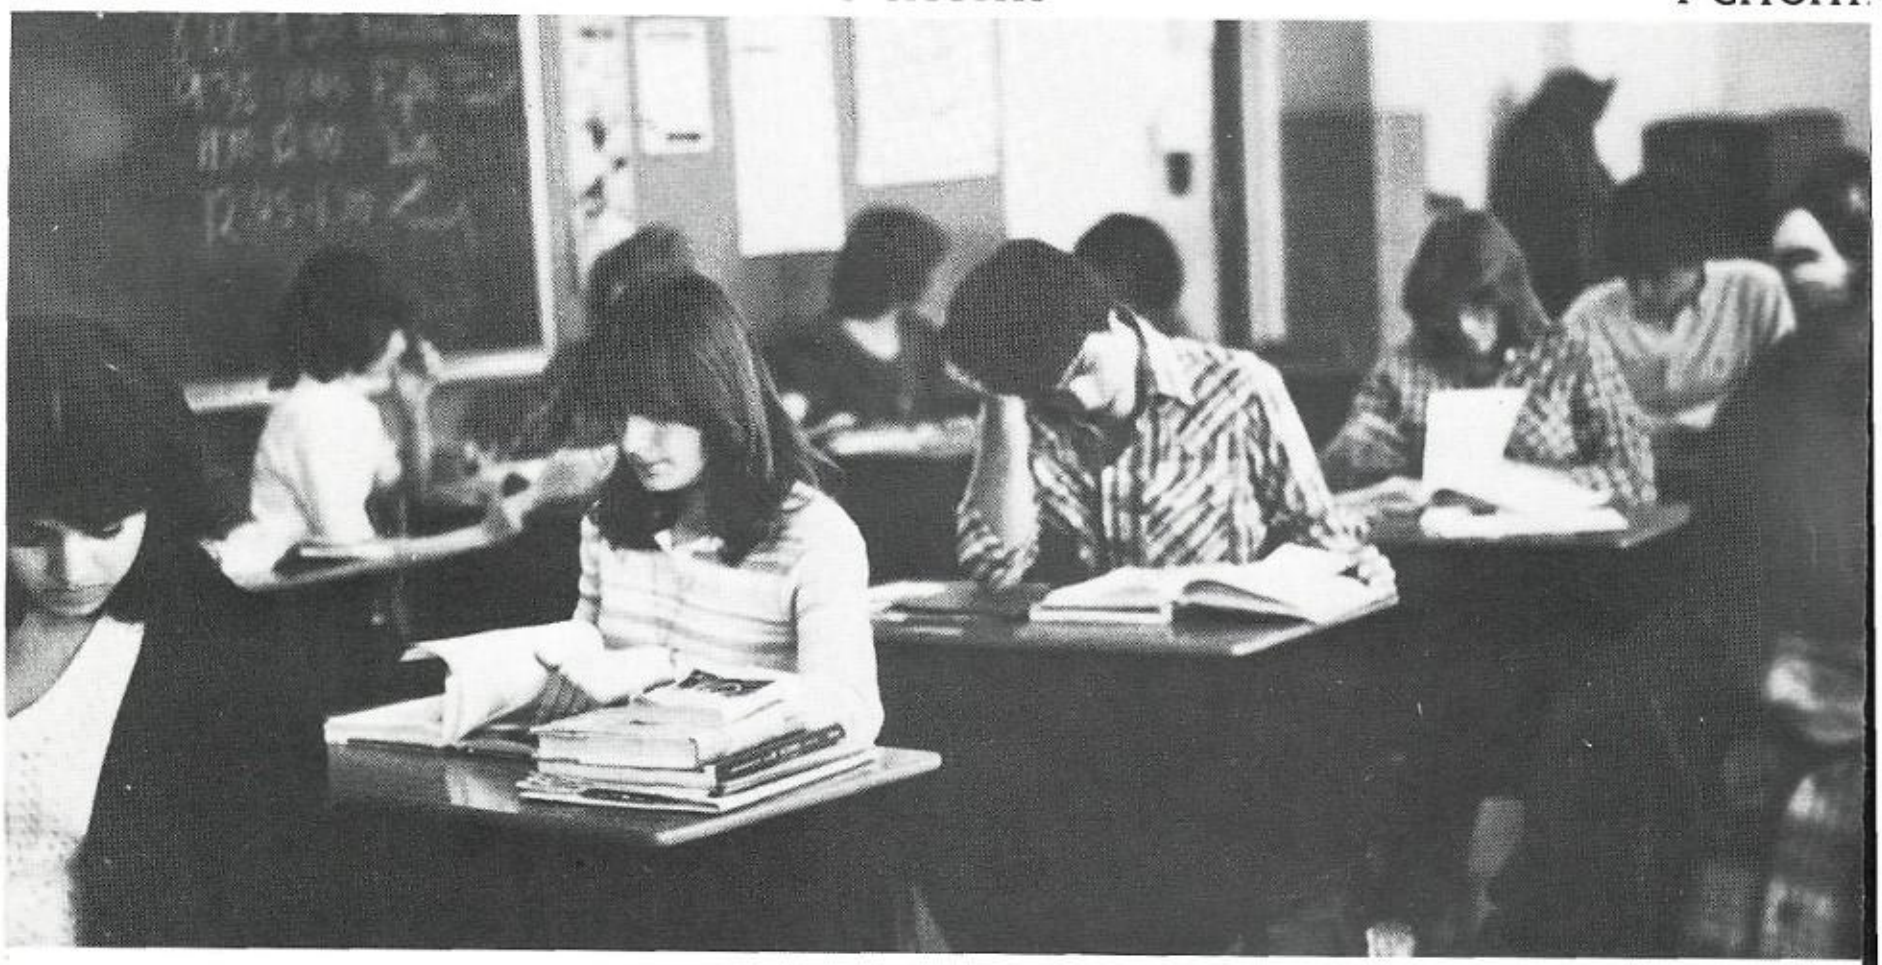
Free Enterprise, though different from government, is generally on the same level, covering the same issues that concern politics and the laws that govern people.

English is a subject in which almost everyone can use some polishing. People tend to be lax in this area.

Mathematics is a favorite with many students.



Study Study Study Study Study



Although it is very involved, the ability to reason can be mastered by extended exposure.

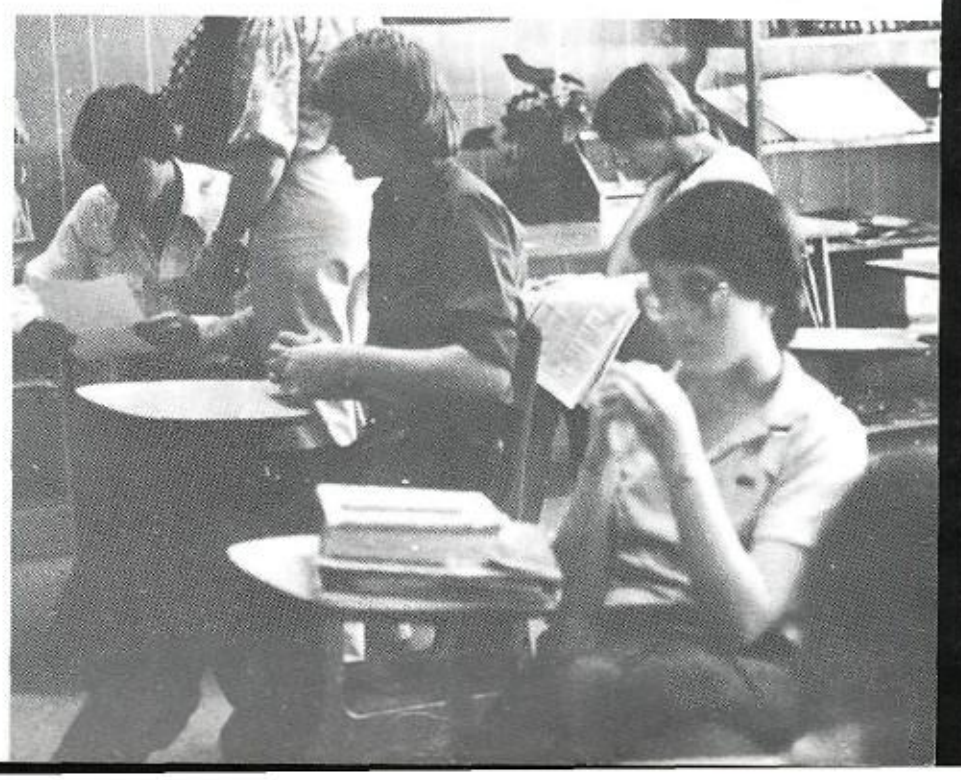
A cousin to math is science. The high school level of science ranges from the challenging to the super challenging.

Business classes are also offered to the high school student. The courses give the student a chance to be educated in an area that can be helpful.

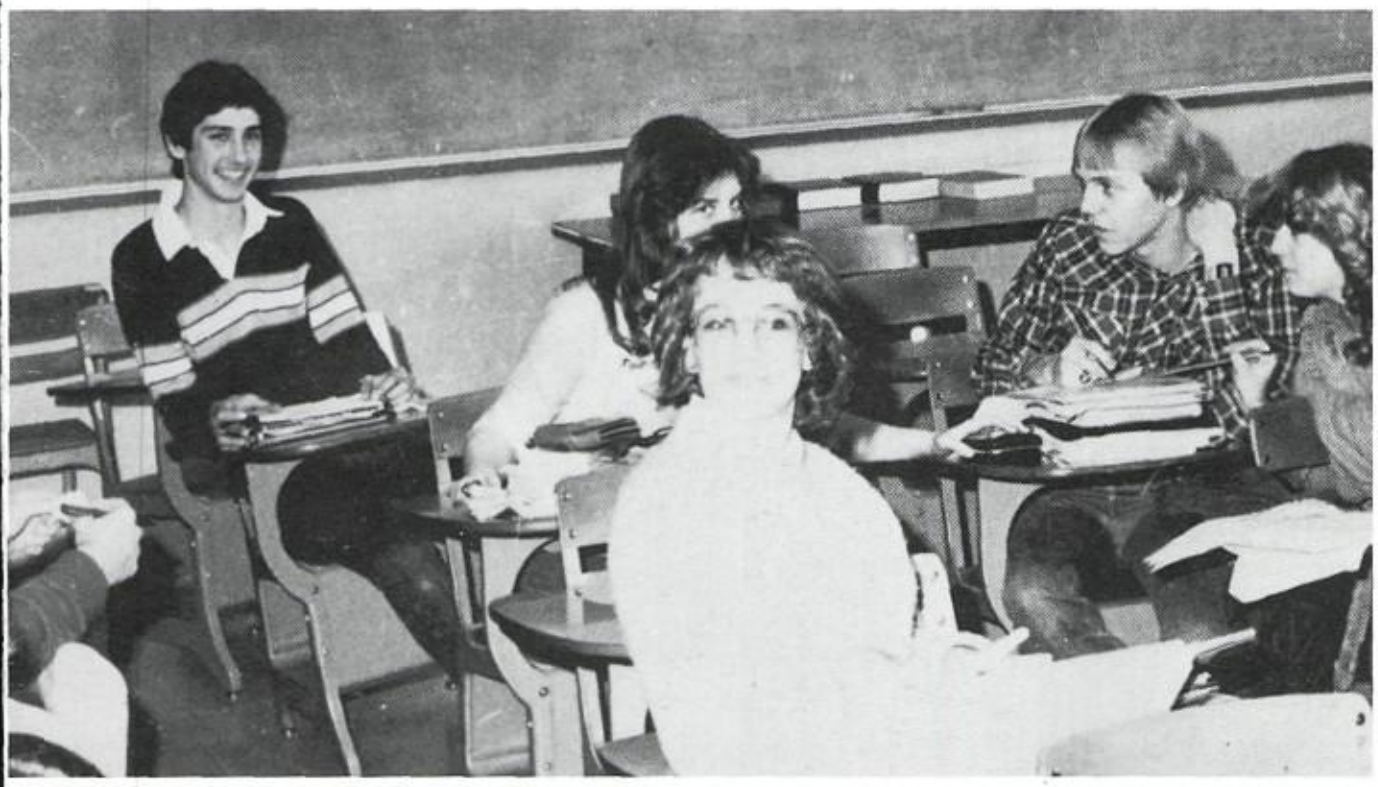
For the person that prefers the more artistic areas, a number of art and craft classes are offered.

Journalism is another field of study that has become more significant in today's world. A background here can be nice to have.

Some areas that are also important are the Psychology and Sociology classes. They can prepare one for life on the outside.



Perform Perform Perform



Hopefully, the information regarding academics of high school has made everyone more aware of the importance of the school system and the courses offered. In centuries past, young people were selected to be schooled, and not everyone was allowed an education. It was an honor to be educated, and this should still hold true today.

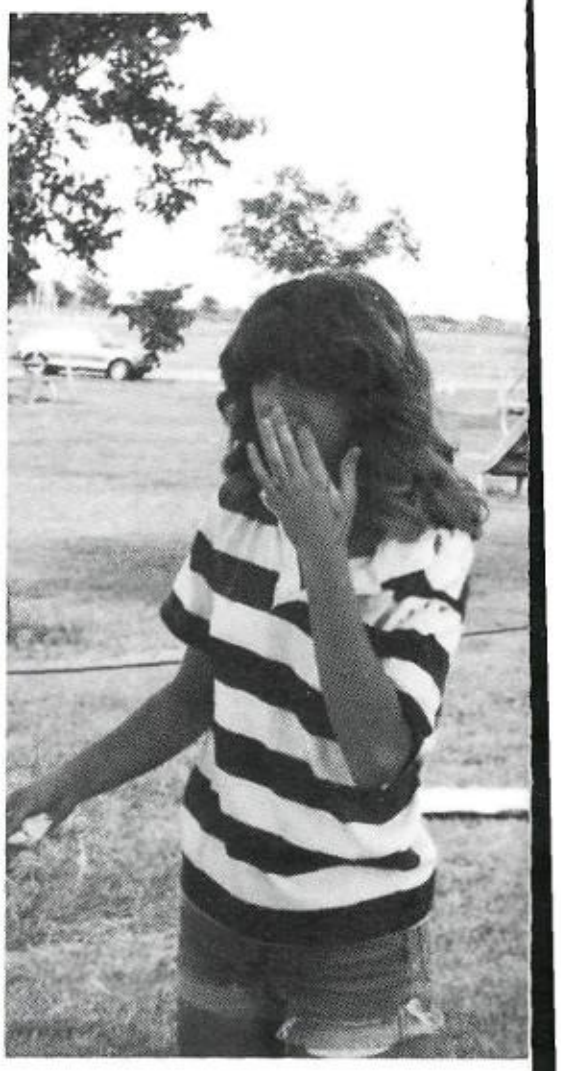
Courtney Bush at Frosh initiation.



Billy Earnest shows his profile.

UNFORTUNATELY, society tends to segregate itself into classes or categories. Because of this separation, everyone cannot be equal. As unfair as this may seem, it is the system today. Since life, for the most part is like this, school is this way too, particularly in the classifications of students. The major divisions seem to be the upper classmen and the lower classmen. The upper classmen are the seniors and juniors, and the lower classmen are the freshmen and sophomores. Usually the upper classmen are the elite group, and the lower classmen are less elite. The lower classmen are often forgotten or ignored, especially when dealing with the yearbook. This year's yearbook staff is trying to delete this barrier, because everyone together as a unit is more beneficial than each group alone.

FADS COME AND GO, but many students have been left bug-eyed by this year's fad of video game-playing. Raiders have pumped countless quarters into the money-hungry machines, often finding that February's allowance ran out in mid-January. Weekends are about the biggest times for playing games and Putt Putt is about the hottest spot with people waiting in line to pop their quarters in for a round with computer monsters or space ships. The most devoted video junkies, though, play not only weekends, week nights and after school, but instead of eating lunch on Kemp, they spend their food money on a video fix. Will this fad become a permanent addition to the crazed life of a high school student? Only time will tell, so until then, Raiders, keep pumping that loose change.

The
1982 Raider Yearbook would have been impossible without the yearbook staff and the people of Rider High School.
Therefore, instead of the staff closing the book alone, or, rather,
"signing it off," all of the staff
"sign off the year" individually, and together.

Group Pictures . . .

Most group pictures have been placed in the index section of the yearbook for a number of reasons. The primary reason was to allow more space for candid pictures of students in various organizational pages. Group pictures are also important, but rows of posed people looking at the camera are not as interesting as candids.

Darren,

You're such a sweetheart! What would I do without you?! Health wouldn't have been the same without you at all. Don't forget how mrs. Cookingham always had a newspaper clipping for every-thing! Be good this summer & I'll see ya next year!

Love ya a bunch,

Paula Hawkins

5-83

Darren,
It's been a lot of fun in Biology (1981) sweet we get a chance to- hope we get a funny class to- gether next year. Good luck with Brenda, Jean. Love, Mari

Darren,
Darson A real nice understanding FRIEND but in 10th grade we had our ups and downs I know you didn't hate me (smile) this year we very best of FRIEND and I hope we stay that way. what ever you do what EVER you choose to do I hope the VERY best. you and BRENDA keep on keeping on good Luck to both of you ALL.
your FRIEND
4/ smer SENNY

Darren,
Youre such a dear friend that I have known for such a long time. We have had our up and downs and our few harsh words, but all in all the years we have known each other were fun. You are getting cuter as the years go by and I hope you continue to do so. Good luck in football and track next year. Hope you don't hurt yourself while playing. May God watch over you as you go through life. Hope we can always be friends no matter what. Wish me luck. Give all the teachers he-- next year (smile).

Loves always,

Beverly Brown
